PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Fellow Artists,

Once more I greet you with great anticipation of the year to come. We have made great strides in the Art Community and in the city of San Clemente. We are a force that other groups emulate. I said this in 2012 and it is still true.

This new year we will see some new faces on the board, Patty Prather and Shelia Shepard have joined the board, Mary Scott has taken the position of Gallery Chairman (Pam Hill will assist but wished to remain anonymous). Katharina Stute has stepped down from the Jewelry Chairman's position, her successor will be named in the next newsletter. For those of you that do not know how much work Katharina has put into the jewelry program here is a piece of it. Katharina came to the board several years ago with the idea to show the jewelry in cases. The board was undecided on whether we wanted to take up the gallery space with jewelry cases. Katharina was persistent and finally the board started with two cases. It was a great move as now we have five cases and have attracted very talented artisans. Don't forget Deter who brought the cases in and wired them up with lights to show off the jewelry.

Sandy Beeler started the MAP program last year for the military and families. This program is funded by donations and takes care of all the supplies that are needed by the military families.

Our Mission Statement remains the same. To provide a gallery for all of San Clemente and to support the school art programs as well as other groups. Our monthly demonstrators are top of the art world and we welcome all members and guests.

See you around the gallery,

George Gooch President

How Do You Measure Up Against Other Painters?

Use This Growth Tool To Push Yourself

Dear Artists,

Last weekend I went antiquing with my wife and I noticed dozens, maybe hundreds, of paintings by artists whose names I did not know. And most of those paintings had one thing in common: They were 80 percent there.

What do I mean by 80 percent there? These artists had accomplished a great deal as painters. They had values and color down, subject matter was pretty good — yet their paintings all looked alike. None of them were breakthrough paintings.

That's probably why they were in antique stores at low prices rather than museums or auction houses.

Here is an unfortunate fact: Most painters' work would be lucky to end up in antique stores or at the Salvation Army.

I don't want that for myself, and I don't want that for you.

So how do you get beyond 80 percent and get your paintings to be standout originals?

Though all painters want to grow and get better, there is one tool that will make you stronger and able to compete with the best of the best.

No ... it's not workshops, though those are important.

No ... it's not art video training, though that's also important

The one tool to make you better is to compete with other painters to see how you measure up.

When you compete against others, you push yourself, you try harder, you take extra care on your paintings. And if you don't win, you look at the winners, and you try to hit that level of quality ... and you enter again, and again.

It's a fact. Art competitions make us better.

Each time you enter a painting in the PleinAir Salon, you're working to elevate yourself to be measured against others. And though you may feel you don't measure up against some of the people entering, there is no greater satisfaction than a judge picking your painting over theirs.

How will you know you've arrived unless you start winning?

Enter your best paintings each time, so you can be measured against others, and you can step up your work to a higher level.

Past...

The Military Artist Program conducted workshops at the San Clemente Art Supply and the recreational facility aboard Marine Corps Base Camp Pendleton. Active duty service members, veterans, spouses and their children attended the workshops. Basic drawing and painting techniques including perspective and figure sketching were covered by the following well-known local artists: Rick Delanty, Alan Nowell, Susan Winslow, Steve Kell, and Maurine Lacher. Each participant left with knowledge and supplies to continue their project at home.

Coming up...

The Military Artist Program plans to continue its art workshops into Fall of 2016 and is seeking continued funding for the program. MAP volunteers are working with Family Readiness Officers on Marine Corps Base Camp Pendleton to attract participants and arrange on-base classroom locations.

News From the SCAA Art and Craft Show, 2016

This year's SCAA Art and Craft Show was a wonderful success! Even though the I-5 was closed Saturday for awhile between Hermosa and Pico, that did not dampen the spirits of all our wonderful vendors! The weather was beautiful and we had nice crowds.

Mike and I would like to give a special thanks to all of those members who participated by giving special demonstrations, Katerina Stute, jewelry wire wrapping and Ruth Yuhas, painting.

Also: Mary and Winfield Scott, "Greeters"; Mary Claire Doyle, Ellen Seefeldt, Susan Winslow, and Pat and Mike Bauerkemper, "Lunches"; Sandy Beeler, gallery and food lunch people.

In addition, Mike and I would like to give a special merit of honor to Arnie Hershman for his single handed referee of parking! He was the only one to handle this difficult task and he was magnificent! We deeply appreciated his professionalism and dogged effort. He was great!

Again, Mike and I want to thank everyone who was a part of this great show!

Linda A. Johnson

Linda "Mimmie" A. Johnson, 76, suddenly and unexpectedly passed away on Monday, August 22, 2016, at Mission Hospital in Mission Viejo, California.

She is survived by her three children who love and miss her very much: Jeannette Sisola, Roger Johnson, and Melanie Timmins. "Mimmie" was adored by her five grandchildren: Brandon & Karissa Sisola, Patrick & Rowan Timmins, and Sadie Johnson. Her sister Diane Powell and brother Edward (Ted) Marwede, along with numerous extended family members, lost the rock of the family and will forever miss her dearly.

Linda strived for perfection in both her personal life and in her career. An avid photographer, she always had her camera to catch the perfect photo. She entered & won a prize for the photo of the old Jaguar. To all of her many "gal friends" and anyone that met her, Linda was an unforgettable person and amazing friend.
